what is the YIP?

Young people who take part in the YIP programme are identified through a multi-agency approach as being at risk of entering the criminal justice system, antisocial behaviour or social exclusion. Our partners include:

- Community Justice Centre
- Children's Services
- Youth Offending Service
- Police
- LASBU
- Connexions
- Barnardos
- Positive Futures
- Kensington Regeneration
- Local Schools
- Housing

- Many other organisations.

We work on achieving specific objectives regarding engaging young people, delivering interventions, reducing arrest rates and ensuring access to education, training and employment .

The project is delivered by Nacro – the national crime reduction charity. Funding comes from the Youth Justice Board and Kensington Regeneration.

what do we do?

We offer a programme of diversionary activities within Kensington for young people aged 8 – 16 years. The sessions are run outside of school hours, including school holidays, weekends and evenings. We also provide support in schools at home and panel/review meetings. We give young people a safe place to go where they can learn new skills and achieve certification such as City & Guilds or NOCN through our alternative education programme. They can take part in activities ranging from football and fishing to film/pamper nights. We also provide the opportunity for young people to take part in residential activities.

The YIP is unique as we target 50 young people who are most at risk of becoming involved in the criminal justice system – our ID50. We work with partners to identify these young people and welcome input and referrals from other organisations.

We aim to deliver an exciting range of activities and interventions for young people and believe working with partners can make delivery more effective. We aim to ensure that together with our partners we pool our resources when possible to achieve the best outcomes.

working with partners

The YIP's steering group is made up of all of the key partners and brings together a host of resources and a range of organisations. We welcome interest from potential partners who can help us deliver the best project possible.

changing young lives

We know we are not alone in working with some of the most at risk young people in the area. We hope to work with all partners to deliver a top quality service to our young people and welcome referrals and partnerships with other agencies so why not get in touch?
